Sapref said it had cut sulfur dioxide emissions by two-thirds since 1997 and spent more than 64 million over 11 years on environmental initiatives.

The universities in the capital of Malaysia are known for their affiliations with various international universities and good ranking.